364 Page St. is located on a 57.50' x 120' through lot on the north side of Page Street, between Buchanan and Laguna Streets. Built in 1929, 364 Page St is a 4-story, wood frame, apartment building designed in the Classical Revival style. The I-plan building, built on a sloping lot, is clad in brick, stucco, and wood horizontal drop siding, and is capped by a flat roof. The primary façade faces south and is 4 bays wide. The ground floor, clad in brick, contains a secondary entrance and two garage entrances with overhead garage doors in the second, third and fourth bays. The second floor features a service entrance with a glazed wood door and a recessed primary entrance in the left bay which is nearly at grade. The main entrance is surrounded by water leaf-and-tongue molding and lined with Italian tile. The entrance contains two glazed wood panel doors. The second bay of the second floor contains two windows, while the third bay contains three windows that are all double-hung wood sash in composition. The right bay contains a three-story semi-hexagonal bay window with three double-hung windows. The third and fourth stories are characterized by semi-hexagonal bay windows in the end bays and fenestration identical to that on the second story in the center bays. On the second and third floors, cartouches were applied over the bay window's spandrels. The primary facade terminates in flat-panel belt course, a molded architrave and frieze, and a denticulated cornice. The building appears to be in good condition.
