The first story is clad in flush wood siding and features a hotel lobby in the right bays with a recessed entrance fitted with a double-leaf, copper-clad, wood glazed door with sidelights. The upper two stories have a double hung wood window in each bay with fixed, open shutters. The secondary facade facing south along Lily Street is three stories tall in the first three bays and two stories tall in the following six bays. The first story contains two vinyl sliding sash in the second and third bays. The following bays contain asymmetrically set, in-filled doors with double-hung, wood sash windows. A bay entrance is set at the left end of the elevation. The second story has double-hung, wood windows set across the elevation, and an entrance with transom in the eighth bay with a metal balcony. The third story of the front block has double-hung, wood windows in each bay. The elevations terminate in a sculpted cornice. The building appears to be in good condition.
