Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

I think the Sampler Platter is a strong plan with two exceptions.

- The data I've seen suggest very minimal use of the city's existing POPOS. I think funding for public spaces could be much better targeted than those projects.
- The spending allocated for preservation of historic buildings is far too high. Many of the identified historic buildings do not justify such substantial taxpayer resources.

Investment for use towards transit expansion, maintenance of existing fleet and implementation of the Muni Forward program. Select one value. (72) Improving transit must be the number one priority. This value, in addition to the "basic ingredients" amount, will make it only number two (after affordable housing), but that's still a lot better than the other "entrees".

The rest are relatively small items that could have out-sized impact:

South Park-sized new park (~1 acre) (5)

Under I-80 Recreation Area between 4th and 5th Streets (~3.0 acres) (3)

Participation in funding a 5-acre neighborhood serving park (3)

Funding for rehabilitation of 55 new Article 11 buildings (7)

Contribution towards rehabilitation of the Old Mint (2)

Required water recycling for buildings over 100,000 square feet (2)

Revolving Loan Fund for greening public and publicly-funded buildings (2)

Incorporate stormwater management into complete streets (4)

PAGE 4: Comments & Feedback

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

Transit, transit, transit. Invest to make Muni run more efficiently, delivering more service with the same operating costs. Figure out how to escape the consultant-heavy, common-sense-free, snail's-pace public process that bogs down projects for decades and then delivers lemons.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

I think improving the streets and transit options are the most important items to be addresses since these can only be done by the city. I can choose to donate to nonprofits to support other goals but not to improve streets and transportation.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

While a higher number for affordable housing appeals to me I also feel that this location offers the best place for economic development to support some past uses as well as providing space for the arts and non profits being displaced to Oakland due to high commercial rents here.

This area has become a strong arts district adjacent to the convention center. In the transfer of redevelopment area to a new entity, I am concerned that there be adequate capital funding to maintain yeeba buena gardens and any new open space added here. The convention center is being let off the hook for the subsidy it had to provide for 20 years to mitigate the displacement of an entire ethnic low income neighborhood. You mention use of Mello Roos. Make sure the public benefits continue full support for the whole Yerba Buena complex.

Kudos for an excellent and interesting packaging for public participation through out this long process . Congrats

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

The affordability percentage should not be pushed at the expense of momentum. Neighborhood character is of great importance, including historic sites (esp. the Old Mint), light industry and small craft-oriented businesses. However, the plan should allow flexibility in accommodating residential development of historic elements.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

As San Francisco continues to face dramatic economic shifts, I think it's important to preserve, protect and create affordable housing and jobs for people at all economic levels. Housing without jobs will only go so far in ensuring the continued diversity of San Francisco. Access to those homes and jobs is important as well, so it will be important to understand what the public will actually get for the transit dollars invested through this plan.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

The SoMA area is currently undergoing a difficult transformation from an industrial/warehouse district into a medium-density commercial and residential neighborhood. For example, almost every apartment in the area has a noise problem due to the combination of busy streets, limited public transit, and the highway.

If we really want to set the area up for success in the long term, we need to invest in the environmental conditions and transportation (both public and walking/biking) infrastructure of the area.

So I would strongly prefer investment go into those issues.

Transit in the neighborhood, including sidewalks and bike lanes, are severely lacking. Residents lack public transit options, and I have witnessed many near-miss accidents between walkers/bikers and cars.

In addition, the neighborhood is not green enough. The streets lack trees and well-kept landscaped areas.

Sustainability should be of utmost priority as this neighborhood expands.

It was between this and the Green & Mobile choice because of the latter's emphasis on funding transit, a concept near and dear. In the end, however, I opted for increased housing affordability because of the dire crisis that confronts us. I commend the authors of this survey! It's a terrific concept. The downside is that it made me really hungry. Someone in your shop REALLY understands foodie lingo!

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

The City's primary infrastructure needs are transit and street related. More circulation will be necessary in that area as additional units and jobs are added to the area. On top of that, CalTrain and HSR are expected to go through the area. These funds could be used to help fill their major funding gaps.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

Everything is important, but without transportation there's no improvement in any of the other areas (e.g. people living in affordable housing are most reliant on public transportation/transit). I'd even put the 2 Billion all into transit, but then I do recognize the need for a balanced meal. -sbf

Transit -

Highest investment (50)

This equals 96. I would invest any additional funding into complete streets. We desperately need more trees and plant life in Central Soma.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

I chose this option to heavily fund a redesign of the streets in Central Soma. Every major street in this region is in dire need an upgrade, away from the car centric model. It is so unpleasant to walk/bike almost anywhere within Central Soma. We also need far more trees and open space/parks to revive the neighborhood. Investing in better transit is also crucial.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

In order to keep the City liveable, and to fulfill obligations ranging from global--limit climate change to local--Vision Zero, improved public transit is essential. So, I voted for the entree that I understood to offer the most public transit options. My daughter is married to a Netherlands guy and on our frequent trips to Amsterdam to visit her and our grandchildren, we have come to believe that clearly separated lanes for bicycle/pedestrian/and motorized transit reduce accidents and keep the City moving.

Care most about complete streets, keeping low-cost ("historic") buildings, and transit, in that order. Out of the 4 options, that one fit those priorities the best.

I care about complete streets since people on the street is what makes a city enjoyable and interesting. I care about low-cost buildings since I think that would help keep a diverse set of businesses, which also makes a city enjoyable and interesting.

If there's a way to keep out the mc donalds and american apparels, I vote for that as well.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

As someone who works in SOMA and lives outside the city, I find SOMA is one of the most depressing areas of SF to walk or bike around - wide busy streets, the lack of parks, trees, greenery, and other public sitting areas, and the deep shadow of the freeway make it very uninviting. In fact, I think tree planting should be a higher priority but isn't on this list.

Most important though is the transit connections, which if improved can help move many who drive today to taking transit. I'm keenly aware of the dreary crawl that is the Bay Bridge commute, which can be snarled even late into the night. Especially lacking are convenient, efficient ways to get between the East Bay connections - BART on Market St, the Transbay terminal - and the South Bay connections - the Caltrain station; many businesses now have offices near one or the other, but cannot be near both, meaning that commuters from the other must jump through hoops.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

Commerce will ultimately sustain the neighborhood. People need a place to live, a place for their children and a way to get to work. When people are successful in their lives they are happier and will enhance the area organically. I also think the sustainability requirements should be built into the other areas. All of the other entres should have sustainable goals that coincide with best practices as well as codes.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

Making better use of our land (especially around the freeway) and opening space to the community helps all residents. An extra 7% affordable housing only helps a small number of people.

Also, sensible environmental responsibility policies are important (water management is critical) but some of the environmental options are really just window dressing (if we're going to spend millions or billions on solar panels, we should pay to put up solar panels somewhere that it's sunny, like Bakersfield, not in cloudy SF, since global warming is a global problem, and we want to maximize our impact).

Address climate change. We need to look beyond our provincial issues (affordable housing, PDR) caused by bad planning and NIMBYism and respond to this global disaster. Focusing on environment will indirectly lift the needed quality of life in this district and will reinforce our city's leadership in progressive ideas.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

I believe that this entree solves most of the major pressing problems that SOMA has right now: inhospitable areas around the freeway, lack of green space, poor transit options. Affordable housing in SF is a major concern, but subsidizing more housing in expensive SOMA is not likely the most efficient way to address those problems.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

Housing. It is most important to have diversity of people which means many income levels including the middle class. I hope that the extra scoop of housing can go to the middle class.

Transportation, parks, and safe streets for walking are also very important. I'm an architect, I live in SOMA, I don't have a car, and I don't make six figures. I love San Francisco and I'm hoping that the middle working class can continue to live here.

I care about Complete Streets, Transit, and Open Space, in that order. It would be nice to have more open space, but if you can't get there, it doesn't do you any good. Besides, we're on the streets every day, and the city is clogged with traffic, so moving people around efficiently will benefit everyone.

It would be lovely to put this kind of money into a big community land trust to preserve existing affordable housing and build more affordable housing to go with it. A major thing missing from the picture is preservation of existing affordable housing. The problem of neighbors being shaken out of the neighborhood is important -- not just the problem of new arrivals needing more space.

Hence --

If I get to allocate values as well as choosing from the "menu":

- Why not 50% affordable housing?
- Complete Streets 10%
- Existing nonprofits 20%
- "South Park-sized new park" 5%
- Neighborhood-serving 5-ac park 3%
- PDR 12%

But iff the above would disqualify consideration of this entry, here's a substitute menu that incorporates the values you suggest in a manner that adds up to 100%:

- Affordable housing 40%
- Compete Streets 10%
- Existing nonprofits 30%
- Stormwater 4%
- "South Park-sized new park" 5%
- PDR 11%

Stormwater management and flood protection work are basic city services. They're essential but I don't see why they should come out of this fund. Stormwater is included in the second combination because the values have to add up to 100% and you'll be under pressure to take money for essential hydraulics out of this fund no matter what.

A closing comment: it's a mistake to invite your participants to think of themselves as privileged diners making optional choices from a "menu" and being served obsequiously by waiters. I am not a restaurant customer and you are not a waiter and you are not angling for tips. We are all members of a community trying to be welcoming to new arrivals without ourselves becoming displaced to the outer suburbs by the entering tide of investment.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

See above. Please, it's not an entree, it's an attempt to help my neighbors avoid having to move to Tracy and to maintain some kind of welcome in the center city for the people who still look to San Francisco as a place of refuge and need it to live up to their hopes.

I want a lot of investment in transit. I was leaning towards the first entre, but I don't believe that putting more restrictions on developers (40% low income housing) will improve affordability as much as building more housing.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

The cost of affordable housing increases in proportion to rising rents, so adding more budget to it is not going to solve homelessness in San Francisco. "Housing First" is the answer, but we need to be more cost-effective about it (e.g. housing people in lower-income communities outside of SF's boundaries).

PDR areas can be used to build more housing to handle expected population growth. While PDR jobs do provide more income than retail, at current rates of median rent growth, by next year, every resident in a PDR job will require a corresponding "affordable housing" slot, meaning they're a double-whammy on the budget. Rather than try to preserve PDR areas in San Francisco, it is more cost-effective to rely on the PDR capabilities in neighbouring Oakland and Millbrae to service our population. Increased spending on public transit (especially BART) will help SF residents more effectively access PDR in these communities.

Public Transit and Greening should be done hand-in-hand; the VIVAnext project in Toronto, Ontario, Canada is a great example of budget-saving synergies when you do these tasks together. Spending on this will be more impactful once homelessness is solved, but these projects have a long lead time (~a decade), so try to set aside a bit of money now so that planning can get started.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

Open space is the most important need. We need to make the neighborhood safe and comfortable for those who already live here. We should not have to bear a disproportionate part of the below market housing built in the city...other neighborhoods need to take their share.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

All the others seemed skewed toward specific interests - commercial vs. green/open space vs. historic vs. low income/non-profit. I walk through that hood 5 days a week and the area around 5th and 6th is deteriorating annually. Anything that can be done to make it a less dodgy neighborhood is a good thing. Great transit, more services, more office space (non-profit or not), restaurants, cafes, open spaces, parks and green, clean/wide/smooth sidewalks, some affordable housing, and a great walking/biking/alt-transit neighborhood would help the area a lot - IMHO.

Complete Streets:

- * Redesign all major streets to be safe and comfortable for people walking and biking (10)

Environmental Sustainability:

- * "Better Roofs" Requirement (green and/or solar) (5)
- * Required purchase of 100% renewable energy (8)
- * Required landscaping of private open space (1)
- * Revolving Loan Fund for greening public and publicly-funded buildings (2)
- * Incorporate stormwater management into complete streets (4)
- * Greening of the area around the freeway (3)

Historic Preservation:

- * Funding for rehabilitation of 55 new Article 11 buildings (7)
- * Contribution towards rehabilitation of the Old Mint (2)

Open Space:

- * Under I-80 Recreation Area between 4th and 5th Streets (~3.0 acres) (3)

Transit:

- * Investment for use towards transit expansion, maintenance of existing fleet and implementation of the Muni Forward program. Select one value. (40)

This public money should fund programs that are the interest of all neighbors, not just the loudest voices. What SoMa needs most is wider, cleaner, safer sidewalks and better mass transit. It would be unethical to spend 40% of this funding meant for the general betterment of the neighborhood on affordable housing, which only benefits some of the neighborhood residents.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

The needs of SoMa are clear to anyone who lives and walks through the neighborhood every day as I do. The sidewalks are often not wide enough to accommodate the foot traffic during the day and the streets are unsafe at night (I've personally witnessed multiple crimes). I live in a complex of more than 100 units and every resident brings up the issue of clean/safe sidewalks as major pain point. Somehow, when it comes to spending public money, this universal issue of clean/safe streets get sidelined and instead special interest proposals like building subsidized housing for specific groups is proposed. Public money should be spent to benefit all residents of the neighborhood.

Using this public money for affordable housing is wrong for SoMa. A SoMa way to solve the affordable housing problem would be to let people build taller building with more units for all income levels. No one who lives in SoMa minds tall buildings, that's kind of the point of living here. Also, SoMa residents don't have gripes with our wealthy neighbors. In SoMa, wealthy residents and working-class resident live side-by-side. Unlike other parts of San Francisco, the SoMa mentality is if someone wants to build a building full of expensive condos, "let 'em build the damn building." That just contributes to the hustle and bustle of the neighborhood. To mandate even more restrictions for affordable house, much less to subsidize it with the general fund, would be un-SoMa.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

Safety and walkability are very important to me. Residents should not only feel safe traversing their neighborhood but should be encouraged to get out and engage with the local businesses and neighbors. Therefore, #2 is removed because I believe the neighborhood needs all of the major streets to be redesigned. #1 also has the most open space and community services for residents--both are a priority for me. I wish #1 had more transit money in it, but the open space, community services and complete streets make up for the shortfall in transit dollars. The close proximity of neighborhoods, population density and diversity of San Francisco can create a delicious stew (your metaphor) but if the elements can't mix (safety, walkability, community space and transit) the community doesn't come together. Please choose #1.

Raid the pantry and create your own dish. Basic ingredients are already included. Numbers in parenthesis must add up to 100.

Affordable Housing

Increase from 33% to 40% of total units (No 33 is plenty)

Complete Streets

Redesign all major streets to be safe and comfortable for people walking and biking (10)

4th ST between Brannan and Townsend needs a redesign to accommodate 601 4th St traffic entering exiting into 4th ST. MUNI right of way makes street and sidewalk dangerous where traffic will be reduced to 1 lane. Also need to include new streetscapes/plantings/ sidewalks and lighting all up and down 4th to upgrade area and soften the hardness of new construction

Environmental Sustainability

"Better Roofs" Requirement (green and/or solar) (5)

Required purchase of 100% renewable energy (8)

Required water recycling for buildings over 100,000 square feet (2)

Required landscaping of private open space (1)

Revolving Loan Fund for greening public and publicly-funded buildings (2)

Incorporate stormwater management into complete streets (4)

Greening of the area around the freeway (3)

Get the homeless off 4th and 5th under the freeway for a start. Then give up the idea of an under freeway public space. It is cold, windy and damp- will not be used except by the homeless who will sleep and shoot up there. Use the money for increased police presence and patrols. Homelessness and crime is out of hand.

Investment in flooding and sea level rise protection and adaptation (15)

Historic Preservation

Funding for rehabilitation of 55 new Article 11 buildings (7)

Contribution towards rehabilitation of the Old Mint (2)

Non-Profit Office and Community Services

400,000 square feet of space to house existing non-profits (30)

60,000 square feet to meet needs of new population (3)

Open Space

South Park-sized new park (~1 acre) (5)

Under I-80 Recreation Area between 4th and 5th Streets (~3.0 acres) --No 0

Participation in funding a 5-acre neighborhood serving park (3)

Production, Distribution, and Repair (including Arts)

225,000 square feet (25% of existing protected PDR space) (11)

Another 225,000 square feet (for a total of 50% of existing protected PDR space) (22)

Another 225,000 square feet (for a total of 75% of existing protected PDR space) (33)

Another 225,000 square feet (for a total of 100% of existing protected PDR space) (44)

Transit- install light at 4th and Bluxome and relook at traffic flows. Access to 280 will be a nightmare for current 4th St residents

Investment for use towards transit expansion, maintenance of existing fleet and implementation of the Muni Forward program. Select one value. (10) (20) (30) (40) (50)

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

Because the allocations of the others were too general

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

I think the struggle here is priorities and scale. While the city needs, urgently, more housing and more effective transportation. Other factors affecting livability remain central to the success of the plan. Housing needs services to accompany it and work nearby. Density must be accompanied by open space. Mass transit improvements should be coupled with other types of transit improvements, i.e. complete streets. Therefore, my "Entree 5" spreads the money broadly, allocating it to these critical categories. It does this by reducing the volume somewhat in important categories. It does this by reducing the volume somewhat in important categories a small amount - hopefully not too much to be ineffective - and by eliminating non-essential spending, such as Historic Preservation and excessive street redesign.

I believe that the economic diversity dish gives my Soma the most promising future. It (...) in affordable spaces which don't seem like they would exist without protection by the plan (PDR, art spaces, affordable units). Also walking the streets of Soma everyday remind me that we need better community services.

I hope for a far more nuanced conversation and less predetermined set of options that would result in a more organic, healthy Central Soma Community.

The paltry "2" points for the National Historic Landmark U.S. Mint was extremely disappointing.

Thanks for doing this and providing for a public process.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

-Clean and safe streets are the most important issue to me.
-Widening sidewalks is a great idea
-Trees planted along sidewalks is a great idea
-Environmental sustainability is something that makes SF unique and is something core to our ethos as a city. I love the prioritization towards more environmental issues
-All of the proposed plans have affordable housing eating up a disproportionate amount of the budget. That is not in the best interest of the city!

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

I'd like to prioritize and fund environmental efforts, especially greenroofs and stormwater planning treatment. I'm also in favor heavily investing in transportation and complete streets - safe sidewalks and bike paths, effective rail and good design. I'd like to also preserve amazing buildings with stature and clear use like the Old Mint.

The proposed plan is too dense, too tall, and does not preserve the neighborhood character. Building height increases should be limited to fewer, larger sites, that do not displace popular current uses (like the SF Tennis Center)

The height limitations should be addressed. They are troublesome along with the possible elimination of recreational facilities (SF Tennis Club)

There are serious concerns about traffic congestion in the area if there is more development.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

Mike Pouhler, SF Heritage

The Old Mint should be a higher priority in general. It is disappointing that the maximum allocated for this project from the Central SoMa Plan appears to be capped at $12 million, especially when the city has estimated project costs of up to $100M. It also undercuts the role of public comments in determining the appropriate level of priority assigned to any given "menu" item (e.g. stormwater management has more importance than the Mint under the Planning Department's pre-calculation of maximum funding). I hope these numbers can be revisited, or that additional funding can be tapped from other priorities for the Mint depending on its use.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

My favorite would be "Green/Mobile" if true measurable standards are set [and coordinated with PUC/PPW] to create a national recognized flagship sustainability district. Short of that, I would support "Economic Diversity" model - with these considerations 1) PDR is beneficial if associated with comparable businesses (not just office for service or financial industry); 2) great idea to include support of non profit 3) swap out open space with historic [I just don't see historic as a priority because more exist alternative funding sources]

#4 & "build your own" menu are enticing, but risks being less impartial & a district that does not have focus.

Residential Diversity lacks an essential seasoning for real residential: a physical, real school, real food sources.

Height Limits should not increase throughout the Eastern Soma neighborhood. Be selective. New construction (mid-rise) on Brannan has been architecturally interesting and practical. Neighbors applaud it and will fight height limits.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

Walking in SOMA is nearly impossible. At night, especially in all sidewalk areas under the highway and around 5th-6th street, walking is quite dangerous - as a woman, I have been harassed many times, and chased twice, which is terrifying. It would be great if some of these enormous amounts of funds could be invested in increasing safety of the population in SOMA. Biking is better, but still dangerous around major intersections.

A note on affordable housing: Expanding the amount of affordable housing in SOMA does not seem like the right solution to the housing problem. The right solution is to build more units of housing. Providing more affordable housing only serves a tiny percent of the (middle class) population, and makes housing even more expensive for everyone else who needs affordable housing, but who is not able to get into an affordable housing unit. This seems like a terrible way to distribute funds.

That doesn't add to 100 because we should definitely not be spending $2B on this stuff. There are many more important things to do. I'd vote against all of it if possible, but the bits listed above are there in case I have to vote for something.

SoMa needs more green, on space badly to promote health and community among some of the smallest homes in the city (SROs and many micro and studio dwellings). Transit service for locals is also a big need because people confuse the commuter bus services and Transbay regional bus lines that run through SoMa with the needs for local residents to get around SoMa by bus. Affordable housing is also a big need in SoMa.

It provided funding for all items.

My ideal scenario would take #4, and decrease funding for PDR and historic preservation and apply that to increase Affordable Housing, Environmental Sustainability and Non-profits, but I am not sure the Scenario 5 allowed me to allot that way.

It would break down as follows:

Affordable Housing: 975

Safe Streets: 127

Environmental Sustainability: 115

Historic Preservation: 22

Non-profits: 100

Open Space: 70

PDR: 100

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

Loss of economic diversity seems to be the major problem facing San Francisco now - and supplying protected office and PDR space for diverse activities seems like a more targeted way of addressing it than designating additional affordable housing (entree #1) which, by the AMI standard, still serves people who are relatively well-off by national standards. Environmental sustainability is also important but it seems more likely that there will be other city-level initiatives helping serve this goal in future years.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

Though affordable housing is something we desperately need, I feel like the 33% already baked in is excellent. Then with population growth, the main values I have are mitigating the impact of the higher population - both in transit capacity and in environmental impact since global warming will be the death of us all. So that's where I ended up for this. The "Residential Diversity Steak with Side of Amenities" was a close second for me, to add an additional $200M+ of housing, since we need housing so so much. But that isn't a net positive number of units necessarily, and mostly what we need is more units.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

Transit funding is far more important than housing subsidies.

Building affordable housing does not provide nearly as much social benefit as building better transit. Housing subsidies go to a lucky few lottery winners. Transit is for everyone, and it increases the supply of housing within commuting distance, which helps with the housing crunch.

We shouldn't settle for housing lotteries to pick the lucky few people who get to live in SF. Instead, we need to build dense, transit-oriented metropolis with room for everyone.

Transit and street improvements should be the highest priority (in that order), with housing a close third. Historic preservation, non-profit office and community space, open space, and production space are all important to me, but less so than transit and pedestrian- and bicycle-oriented streets.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

There is a huge opportunity for responding to the housing affordability crisis in SoMa - today and in the future. Please increase height limits and make complete streets in this area!!!!

Thank you for this opportunity.

Participation in funding a 5-acre neighborhood serving park (3)

Investment for use towards transit expansion, maintenance of existing fleet and implementation of the Muni Forward program.(50)

Required landscaping of private open space (1)

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

Streets are a mess. Transit is a mess.

No recreation in the area. (especially if you demolish the San Francisco Tennis Club by raising height limits on the site)

I drive down Brannan Street every morning and count the number of double parked cars and trucks. It ranges between 4 and 10 double parked vehicles on the blocks within the Central SoMa plan.

Having a park in the middle of a block with a Shelter on the corner is lunacy -- it will become a tent city. Have you ever looked at the block on Bryant and the block on 5th by the shelter? All times of the day or night it is filled with homeless. Same goes with Bluxome St.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

Good to see the City committing funds to go along with affordable housing percentage mandates, rather than just using the political process and hoping that things come true. I support a strong investment in this, to ensure that ample residential development takes place in Central SOMA to meet our demand.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

I like that all plans have a "Basic" contribution to all areas of consideration. The Sampler Platter seems more balanced overall but with increases to street improvement, open space, historic preservation, and art needs. These reflect my priorities and I believe these would enrich the area so that anyone visiting from any part of the city, as well as, tourists would enjoy the benefits along with those who would live and work in Central SoMa.

Thank you for your hard work.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

Improved transit is very important to me, so the $287 million is pretty exciting. I'm a pedestrian most of the time, so complete streets are especially high on my list. And, last, we do need to be green with all of our efforts.

We are doing a good job with affordable housing in many respects (eg, Jane Kim's victories with 40% at several spots). So, I'd personally like to focus on getting people out of their cars to walk and use public transit.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

There is currently zero green space in central SOMA, and what little parts of community parks are available (Victoria Manolo Draves) are enclosed and lock up with gates at night, and congregated with homeless and drug addicts during the day. Central SOMA covers 6th street which is a haven for derelicts, as well as high incidents of drug use and crime. The couple of streets from 4th to 7th, market to harrison are super dirty and trashy with zero arts around that area apart from Moscone center/Yerba Buena. The majority of the buildings are warehouses in disregard. It would be great to have areas that are opened spaced, with a lot more amenities benefiting the public and environmental conservation to keep our areas green to revitalize that area.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

The center of any community is residential and a hospitable environment. I tried to emphasize components that contribute over the long term to quality of life. I don't believe major transportation investment should come from this funding--that needs to be a city-wide issue. I do believe this is a good opportunity to preserve great buildings and so maintain character.

Require landscaping of private open space: 1

This totals 99. Save the additional "1" for cost overruns, which are sure to happen.

While not asked in the survey, I oppose increasing the "Affordable Housing" component to 33%, much less 40%. All that does is to ensure that fewer units get built AND (for the few that are built) drives up the cost of any market rate housing such that it is unaffordable to the middle class. We need to encourage construction of as many new units of ALL types as soon as possible. That is what will bring housing costs down FOR ALL. Please learn from the City's housing planning mistakes of the last few decades that have caused this affordability crisis and don't make our housing problem even worse.

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

All of the options are important to making this area the best urban environment it can be for all, but none of it matters if people that have basic jobs can't afford to live here. I picked affordable housing over all others for this reason.

Nonprofits, PDR and arts organizations are concerned about their sustainability in the city as well and it is quickly becoming a reality that landlords would rather raise rents than consider the overall city fabric and the importance of having an array of services and programs beyond what the market economy or government can offer. Walkable and safe streets are important as well..and green spaces, these contribute to everyone's health.

SOMA is home to many of these things now, low cost housing, PDR and nonprofit office and space - please consider how to preserve these things as a great deal of these are found in SOMA and nowhere else. There is also a great need for greening, safer streets and better transit. You have the statistics, there are many pedestrian and cyclist collisions in the area due to cars - I feel the entire area is overrun with traffic and cars (all day).

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

Transit is my highest priority implemented in a green and sustainable environment. This plan will do the most to improve the quality of life for my family and me in this neighborhood. Complete streets are also important to make it safe and enjoyable to walk and bike in the neighborhood.

Affordable housing should be added further south in the city. Market dynamics dictate that housing should be more expensive in this area due to its proximity to downtown jobs and transit options to the peninsula. The 3rd street corridor is a better location for affordable housing.

Additional resources for school and child care is not appropriate for this area. Most people who want to raise a family move away from this neighborhood.

Transit - 50

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

Transit is the most important thing to my mind - one of the supervisors said that SF needs be constantly building subways for the foreseeable future, and they're right. In addition to creating traffic and limiting the flow of people to large swaths of the city, the lack of transit also contributes a bunch to gentrification and inequality by dramatically limiting the set of places where it's reasonable to live or work in the city.

There are a ton of things to do with transit right here in SF that the whole region will benefit from:

Obvious extensions of stuff underway:

- Finish the central subway and then extend it to fisherman's wharf and then above-ground to Fort Mason/Palace of Fine Arts/Presidio
- Electrify Caltrain, take it underground and to the transbay terminal.
- Get muni more grade-separated like with that 19th street project.

But also we need major improvements:

- Breaking down the barriers between caltrain<->muni<->bart so we have one system not 3 (or 20). Without this any one system goes almost nowhere or takes forever.
- Caltrain needs to be running subway-frequency of service on local lines, and express trains every 20 minutes. That probably means double-tracks at least from SF to Milbrae.
- Caltrain needs to cross the bay (double-tracked), connect up with Amtrak in Oakland and go all the way to Sacramento. (High Speed Rail starts to make a little more sense if you can add Oakland and Sacramento without changing trains.)
- We need a second (and third (and fourth)) BART line in SF (real usable high-volume backbone transit; not muni). A bart line down Geary would open up a massive swath of the city to more commerce and less traffic, and lines from there north to golden gate bridge and south to golden gate park and the ocean would let tourists actually use our transit system.
- A transbay bart line coming from something like Oakland's airport and landing somewhere to the south, like hunter's point, would open up another massive swath of the city.
- We need to ask Marin County politely if they'd like to join BART every 5 years, and finish the line over the bridge so their not-very-SMART train actually can take them somewhere when they agree.

We should be paying for this with higher taxes on property and income and corporate offices and corporate/private shuttles and tolls/vehicles/gas/parking, but people suck. This money seems relatively easy, so yeah, spend it on TRANSIT. ALL OF IT. (Or lots of it.)

(I was thinking about building my own recipe, but I do like a bunch of the environmental stuff (greening the highway, flooding protection) too and I do like improving the streets, walking on a bunch of these streets sucks right now, so voting for the obvious TRANSIT choice seemed simple enough.)

Q3: Why Did You Choose This Entree?

I run as a form of commute to get around downtown. As a healthy 33 year old, I can do this with no problem. I'm actually quicker than Muni on some routes. But one day I will get old and I now hope there is transit infrastructure and walkable and bikeable streets in place by then.
